

Central Asia Industrial and Commercial Energy Storage Project

Overview

Can energy storage solve transboundary water and energy conflict in Central Asia?

A solution for transboundary water and energy conflict in Central Asia is proposed. Benefits of energy storage beyond the energy sector are shown. Long duration energy storage is key for high shares of solar PV and wind energy in the region. An open-access, integrated water and energy system model of Central Asia is developed.

Does Central Asia have an integrated water and energy system?

An open-access, integrated water and energy system model of Central Asia is developed. Central Asia's energy transition to a high share of renewable energy by 2050 is analyzed. Model for Energy Supply Systems Alternatives and their General Environmental Impact 1. Introduction.

What is a water management challenge in Central Asia?

A water management challenge in Central Asia is a conflict of interests between upstream and downstream countries. Upstream Kyrgyzstan and Tajikistan have abundant water resources that they want to release during winter to fulfil their energy needs through hydropower generation (Fig. 1 (a)).

Is water use a problem in Central Asia?

Introduction Water use for irrigation and electricity generation has long been subject to dispute between downstream and upstream countries in Central Asia .
